Author Interview Questions

- Tell us a little bit about meeting Danny and also what your relationship is like with him today?
- A major theme of Intersexion is around authenticity—in what ways has your life changed since you went on this journey with Danny?
- When you talk about your relationships deepening and your social circle broadening since you've been more authentic, have you found that to be true across the board with everyone? Have you experienced any loss in your relationships?
- You write a lot about community. What does community look like for you today, and how have your ideas evolved?
- A lot happens around tables in the book—was this by design?
- Where are you currently in your faith?
- Take us behind the scenes a bit in the boardroom scene at the Bible college—what was your internal dialogue like as you were living through that interview?
- You write about being ill equipped to deal with the gay students in your late 90s/early 2000s youth group. Can you tell us more about this and also how much do you think things have changed today?
- Tell us about writing Danny's section in his voice. What was the most challenging part of that process?
